VIEWS OF THE NEWS

By LEONARD F. JAMES

A paradox of the present record prosperity is the crisis faced by retired workers who are supposedly insured against financial need after age sixty. The program of old-age insurance, instituted originally as part of the New Deal, covers 35,000,000 who are contributing from the weekly pay envelope to buy an annuity for old age. The average monthly check received by a retired worker and his wife is around $40. But with the present dollar worth only 60 cents in comparison with 1940 buying power, the average couple receives actually about $24 a month. Two results develop. Those retired people who can still find jobs endeavor to eke out their meager income by working. Or else they are forced to go on relief. Consequently, despite an all-time high in employment, the relief rolls are growing. Old-age insurance was supposed gradually to replace relief assistance. But today more than one out of every five persons over 65 is on relief.

The graduating students marched in to their places on the stage to the strains of Mendelssohn's "War March of the Priests", from "Athalia", played by the school orchestra, and the Rev. John S. Moses, a member of the school committee and one of the Pynchard trustees, offered prayer.

The Salutatory and Essay, "Preparation for the Goodly Life", were given by Joan Capen. Two essays were then given, "The Better Things of Life" by Jane Black, and "The Abundance of Opportunities in Careers", by Eric Halbach. The Glee club, under the direction of Mrs. Miriam Sweeney McArdle sang "The Heavens Resound" by Beethoven.

Kenneth L. Sherman, Superintendent of Schools, then awarded the prizes.

Qualified members of the class were presented for initiation into the Cum Laude society by Emory S. Basford, chairman of the English department. At the alumni luncheon Saturday, William E. Stevenson, president of Oberlin College, called for a stock-taking and reappraisal of American educational programs, aims and purposes, so that our schools and colleges may meet the challenge of what he termed "this dynamic age."

Pointing out the steady progress made at Andover under the administration of Headmaster Claude Moore Fuess, he praised Dr. Fuess for establishing a program which has enabled Andover to meet present-day requirements.

Television Reception Good Here Local Dealers Say Pictures Enthuse Their Audiences

Television broadcasting was inaugurated in New England Wednesday evening and the reception here in Andover of the newest marvel of the century was reported to be exceptionally good.

The first video station in Boston—WBZ-TV—started its programs at 6:15 after beaming a series of test patterns over the air earlier in the week so that sets and antenna could be adjusted.

While several local residents had their video sets ready for the dedication program, the Temple Electrical and Radio Shop, and the Andover Home Service, local dealers, prepared for the television debut with a little ceremony.

Harold Phinney conducted an "open house" at his Main street shop and many took advantage of the opportunity to drop in during the evening hours to view the pictures flashing across the screen.

AT THE LIBRARY

"ADVENTURES IN READING"

The "Adventures in Reading" list used by various church groups to deepen the spiritual life of men, women and children, to encourage familiarity with the Bible, to foster a spirit of brotherhood among all people and to arouse interest in world problems, has been revised for the reading season 1948-1949. As in previous years the list aims to suggest more inspiring, wholesome and profitable reading, and has now become a project of such proportions that some fourteen thousand copies of it are used by churches.

Many of the books have been shelved in a separate section in the Memorial Hall Library, to facilitate selection and to give the reader a chance to look over the material critically. Several titles now on order appear on the list, and will be added to the shelves when ready.

Are You a Good Reader?

Here and there one will find a bold and daring soul who will make a selection of "best" books published during a certain period of time. One hundred prominent Americans have been willing to list books which, while not naming them specifically as the "best" books ever written, they do feel are ones which should be read by every American. The books were skillfully annotated by Miss Emily Wedge, and arranged in order of their popularity. If the casual reader who wishes to feel that his book selection has not been too haphazard, will set himself a book a month, let us say, with one of the more serious or lengthy to go along on a long stretch, he will find himself that well-read man of whom Emerson said, "Our high respect for a well-read man is praise enough of literature." And this could happen in less time than the one-a-month allotment would indicate, for some of the books chosen are easily and quickly read. First on the list comes "Plays" by William Shakespeare. This may be one for the long haul; as Miss Wedge says, "...here is a whole gallery of people whom one comes to know and live with, profoundly enriching the understanding of life, and creating scenes and phrases that are a part of the world's heritage of culture." Second choice is "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn," by Mark Twain; here is the epic of "Huck," son of the village drunkard, who ran away from home and floated down the Mississippi on a raft with his friends, Tom Sawyer, and the slave Jim. No small part of the experience is their adventure with the ambitious sharpers who try to relieve them of their money.

"Vanity Fair," by William M. Thackeray, is an old-fashioned "novel without a hero," satirizing society—the scheming adventures, Becky Sharp, carving out a career from a neglected girlhood to a position of social leadership. The fourth from the top is "Don Quixote," the gallant, created by Miguel de Cervantes Saavedra. Too long and intensive reading of chivalric romances befogged the poor Don's common sense, and with his plump servant, Sancho Panza, he set out to tilt with windmills and to rescue damsels in distress. Now, there's a good beginning! And the first of October will probably find you waiting anxiously for the four next-best titles!

Christian Science Directors Meeting

Declaring that democratic government is the instrument through which an irresistible, spiritual force is being channeled into the affairs of men, The Christian Science Board of Directors at Boston, Monday, June 7, urged Christian Scientists, in annual meeting, to work strongly and actively for the defense of free governments throughout the world.

Rightly conceived, the Directors told the Annual Meeting of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, democratic government is something more than an aggregation of legislative acts and legalized rules of conduct.

"It is the orderly unfoldment of the moral character and spiritual integrity of its citizens," the spokesmen for the worldwide Christian Science movement affirmed. As such, they said, free government rightly merits active defense of its sacred purpose, in addition to the pious declarations of allegiance to its outer form.

Thousands of Christian Scientists from many parts of the world heard the Directors issue a distinct challenge to the proud, boastful "Goliaths of today, as they go to and fro in the earth. Denying God, they are denying their own life, for God is the only life of man," they stated.

In free governments, now seriously endangered by the modern Goliaths, the Directors commented, there is a force that gathers its strength from "the same eternal truth given by Christ Jesus in his peerless Sermon on the Mount." Ultimately it shall be seen, they said, that "no individual or nation on earth can withstand the power and presence of God and His Christ."

The Directors' statement highlighted a series of papers and reports made to the annual meeting. Set against the background of the great Mother Church dome and the church park resplendent with mid-Spring blooms, the reports stressed the renaissance of religious activities throughout the postwar world, and reemphasized the privileges of free assembly and freedom of worship as the human symbols of "spiritual freedom."

COURTEOUS CIRCLE

The Courteous Circle of the King's Daughters will hold its annual meeting Monday, June 14, at 6:30 o'clock in the South church vestry. Mrs. Harvey Turner is chairman of the summer committee. The devotional service will be led by Mrs. Carrie Pomeroy. A business meeting will follow with annual reports and installation of officers.

Sherman Elected Legion Commander

Kenneth L. Sherman, a veteran of two wars, was elected Commander of Andover post, 8, American Legion, at a meeting held last Thursday evening in the post headquarters in the Barnard building.

Others elected for the ensuing year are: first vice-commander, Richard Wrigley; second vice-commander, Angus S. Stewart; adjutant, James F. Robent; finance officer, Robert Prescott; chaplain, Alden Cook; historian, Thomas Duff; service officer, James D. Doherty; sergeant-at-arms, Joseph Medolo; executive committee, George C. Napier, Arthur L. Coleman, John H. Gould; delegates to the state convention at Worcester, Kenneth L. Sherman, Stafford A. Lindsay, Thomas P. Dea, Arthur L. Coleman; alternates, Charles Flanagan, Joseph T. Remmes, Joseph A. Horan and Frank Shiebler.

The new commander, Kenneth L. Sherman, superintendent of schools, is a veteran of both World Wars. In World War I he was in the regular Navy as midshipman, serving on the U.S.S. Maine. In World War II he was discharged from the Navy with the rank of Commander, having served in the South Pacific, and in the last months of the war and for some time afterward, was commander of the surface craft attached to air bases engaged in air-sea rescue work. Mr. Sherman is also past president of the Andover Service club and past president of the Essex County Teachers' Association.

Vice-Commander Wrigley will be chairman of a very active membership committee which will start to function immediately. Veterans who wish to belong to the local Legion post should contact him or one of the members of the committee.

The problem that Congress must face sooner or later relates to the size of benefits paid out by the insurance plan and to the coverage of the insurance program. Recognizing the problems involved, President Truman last month requested extension of the program to 20,000,000 workers not yet covered, and asked for an increase of at least 50% of the monthly average of $24. His request for making 60 the eligible age for women was based on the argument that wives are usually younger than their husbands. In many cases an insured worker cannot retire at 65 because it will be a few years before his wife becomes eligible for a wife's benefit, and both cannot live on his benefit alone. The present law denies benefits to any person earning more than $15 in any month. The President requested raising this limit to $40 per month.

Another issue is the insurance collected by widows and other surviving dependents of workers who die before 65. The average check for each dependent survivor is $15 a month, with a purchasing power today of approximately $9 only, compared with 1940 prices. The result is that living costs force many to go to work, earn more than the meager ceiling permitted under the insurance laws, and thus force them to lose the benefits due them. Or else they are forced to ask for relief.

A further gap in social security that needs attention is the large number of workers not covered by the program. Some 23,000,000 jobs are not covered. The workers in these jobs pay no social security contributions, build up no annuity for their old age, and consequently may become charges upon public relief. There are, of course, two opposite arguments. Some proponents claim that the local community should take care of its needy, since local agents know local conditions and can act accordingly. This stand ignores the problem of a large industrial community where the needy can scarcely be adequately provided for out of local funds. Furthermore, this solution, if it actually is one, is based on charity, both unpredictable and unpalatable. Other people favor the insurance plan because it is essentially self-help. The worker, like any citizen who purchases any form of insurance, is paying his contribution to the society-group plan to cover loss.

Unless action is taken by Congress, the actual purchasing power of benefit payments under old-age insurance will drop and the number of persons on relief will continue to grow. Pointing up the tension today between the democracies and Communist Russia, the President urged the importance of extension of the program at a time when the democracies are accused of inability to protect their people against the economic and social uncertainties of modern civilization.

In this larger framework, the issue is significant.

Last year, 33 per cent of all persons killed on America's streets and highways were pedestrians. Watch while you walk!

Graduation

The final assembly or ninth grade graduation as it is better known, will take place June 22nd at 10:30 a. m. The theme this year is centered on "World Peace." Plans are now being made for a chorus, speaking parts, and flag drill. We are trying to get as many ninth graders as possible to participate. Parents are invited to attend this assembly.

Homemaking

A tea was served recently to some elementary school teachers who were interested in reading courses in the grades. The girls in the 7-1 division made the cookies for the tea. Coconut wafers, chocolate drops and oatmeal wafers were some of the cookies served. Mary Alice Shea, Barbara White, Caroline Blake, and Lucille Sherry were the girls who served to about fifteen people.

The eighth grade girls can now be seen almost anywhere armed with crochet needle and thread. They are learning the chain and variations of the chain stitch.

Field Day

Field day is to be held Thursday, June 10th, providing we have good weather. Both girls and boys will be participating in the events. Some of the events will be 50-yard dash, 100-yard dash, relay race, standing broad jump, high jump, baseball throw. Individual points toward an emblem can be won in the track events and also team points toward the trophy.

An-Ju-Hi

The annual year book or school paper, The An-Ju-Hi has been sent to press and will be given out on the last day of school. There will be many things of interest in this paper, and many surprises. The ninth grade class ballot, will and prophesy will appear and many stories of the year's activities.

American History Movie

Last week a dramatic four-part movie on American history entitled "Land of Liberty," was thoroughly enjoyed by the eighth and ninth grade classes. This picture vividly portrayed many important scenes in our country's history, from the coming of the Pilgrims up to the first World War. The movie was of especial interest to the eighth grade students, because it depicted their course of study during the past months.

A Tribute

The janitors of our school deserve many thanks for their services rendered this year. They keep our halls, rooms, and supplies neat and clean and do their best in every way to help either teacher or pupil. They have become the great friends of many pupils in the past years and will be missed during the summer. But when September rolls around, they'll be the first to open the school doors and welcome all of us to another year with them at Andover Junior High school.

Notes

William Hogan of the seventh grade is ill at his home on Hidden road.

Mrs. Miriam Sweeney McArdle is back after a short illness and has been working with the Girls' Glee club and the school orchestra towards the Punchard High school graduation.

An eighth grade student, Cynthia Hayward, has been ill at her home in this past week.

Owen Hineckley, shop instructor, is now in the hospital. He has had an appendectomy.

Charles A. Swift, Jr., one of our eighth grade students, brought honor upon our school by winning second prize in a recent essay contest. Charles received $10 for his essay, entitled, "Why I Like to Live in Greater Lawrence."

WEDDINGS...

MACDONALD-ANDERSON

At an 8 o'clock ceremony, Saturday, June 5, Miss Ruth Eleanor Anderson, daughter of Mrs. Burt M. Anderson, 81 Chestnut street, and David MacDonald, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. David MacDonald, 2 Upland road, were married at Christ Episcopal church by the Rev. John C. Moses.

The bride's brother, John W. Anderson, gave her in marriage, and Mrs. John Souter, the bridegroom's aunt, sang the selections, "I Love You Truly" and "Because."

Maid of honor was Miss Jane Lewis and the bridesmaids were the Misses Barbara Hill and Anna White.

John Murray served as best man, and the ushers were James McGrath, Ralph Manning, Warren Wood and John White. All members of the wedding party were residents of Andover.

The bride's gown, which was of white slipper satin, had a sweetheart neckline and a full skirt flowing into a long, graceful train. Her finger tip veil was trimmed with baby pearls and her cascade bouquet was of gardenias and stephanotis.

The honor attendant's bustle-back gown of pale yellow marquisette was styled with an off-shoulder neckline and net yoke. She wore a tiara of pale orchids and yellow sweetheart roses and carried a matching bouquet. The bridesmaids wore orchid marquisette, off-the-shoulder gowns with net yokes and tiaras of yellow roses. They also had matching bouquets.

For the occasion, Mrs. Anderson was gowned in aqua crepe with a black and white hat and white accessories. A corsage of deep pink roses complemented her outfit.

The bridegroom's mother wore an eyelet-trimmed orchid crepe with a white hat and accessories and a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses.

Guests from Hudson, Manchester, Beverly, Gloucester, Lawrence, Lowell and Maine attended the reception in the parish house.

After a trip to New York, Atlantic City, Washington and Canada, they will return to Andover and be "at home" at 81 Chestnut street after June 19.

A graduate of Pynchard High school and the Kathleen Dell School in Brookline, the bride was associated for two years with the Merrimack Mutual Fire Insurance company in Shawsheen. Mr. MacDonald, also a graduate of Pynchard High school, served with the United States Navy for four years.

NANGLE-COLLINS

Gladioli, carnations and stately palms decorated St. Margaret's church in Lowell, Sunday, June 6, for the wedding of Miss Jacqueline Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Collins, 59 Hawthorne street, Lowell, and Paul A. Nangle son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard M. Nangle, 388 North Main street. The Rev. John Sullivan officiated, and the bride's father gave her in marriage. The soloist was James S. King of Lowell.

Miss LaVerne Pehowski of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, was honor attendant for the bride. Best man was Roger P. Nangle and the ushers were James and William Nangle, all brothers of the bridegroom.

The bride, beautiful in an ivory satin gown with sweetheart neckline, bustle back, long train and finger tip veil held in place with a seeded pearl headpiece, carried a prayer book with orchid cover corsage and cascade of lilies-of-the-valley.

Her maid of honor was attired in a powder blue marquisette gown with an illusion neckline and bertha collar. She wore a matching headband with blue gar-denias and a handpiece of red roses with cascading pink lilies-of-the-valley.

Mrs. Collins was in powder blue with white accessories and pink roses. The bridegroom's mother chose an aqua gown with pink accessories and roses.

Out of town guests from Peabody, Bayonne, New Jersey, Clinton, Fitchburg and New York were present at the reception at the Rex roof garden in Lowell.

Following their trip to New York and New Jersey, they will be at home at 243 Dracut street, Dracut, about June 25.

SIGOUIN-McCORMACK

St. Augustine's church was charmingly decorated with gladioli Sunday, June 6, for the 3 o'clock wedding of Miss Kathleen Theresa McCormack, daughter of Mrs. Catherine McCormack, 4 Buxton court, to Andrew William Sigouin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emile Sigouin, 10 Argilla road. The Rev. Matthew F. McDonald performed the ceremony and the bride's godfather, James McLaughlin, gave her hand in marriage.

Miss Mary F. Lanigan played the traditional wedding music and Frank G. McCarthy, Jr., sang the specially selected numbers.

The bride's sister, Mary McCormack, was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Doris Jean, cousin of the bridegroom, Mrs. Margaret Schelling and Miss Marie Myers, all of Lawrence, and Miss Murielle Sigouin, sister of the bridegroom.

Best man for the groom was Edmond Schelling of Lawrence and his ushers were Gerard Sigouin, his brother, and Branton Davey, the bride's cousin.

The front of the bride's heavy white satin Colonial gown was gathered with lilies-of-the-valley and the long train was edged with white embroidered lace. Her finger tip veil had a white satin embroidered crown trimmed with beaded pearls. The maid of honor, in pink organdy, wore a matching crown trimmed with roses and veiling of the same soft pink. Two of the bridesmaids were gowned in blue organdy and matching veils, crowns and flowers and the other two attendants were in similarly styled yellow gowns and headpieces.

The bride carried her prayer book with an orchid and white streamers. The attendants all carried roses to match the color of the flowers in their headpieces.

Mrs. McCormack's grey crepe was worn with navy blue accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

The groom's mother wore a powder blue dress, navy blue accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

There were guests from New York, Canada, Lawrence and other nearby cities present at the reception at the French-American Club.

The soloist, Salvatore Cataudella, was accompanied by the church organist, Fred E. Jones, who also played the traditional wedding marches.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

TO OUR GRADUATES!

This is commencement time. Throughout the nation, boys and girls — young men and young women — are bidding farewell to school, some to go to higher institutions of learning, some to go out into the world and earn their livelihoods.

It is graduation time in Andover — Phillips Academy, Abbot, Punchard. The story is the same everywhere, and the question in all minds is the same. What next?

Many, of course, will go to college, as they should, because nowadays, more than ever before, the more education one can get the better he, or she, is able to meet the intricate problems of life. Some do not find it hard, financially, to continue their education beyond High School years; others find it very hard. But every bit of effort and energy in the direction of higher education is well worth while.

Yet those who cannot go on — those who find it necessary to work or who, because they do not enjoy studying, decide to end their schooling — should not be upset. Many a person has made a great success of his life without so much as a High school education.

To have completed High school, or its equivalent, is something to be proud of. And the future of those who go no higher may be just as bright, and their lives may be just as successful, as of those who study a few years longer.

It is pretty much up to each individual. It's what one makes of one's life that really counts. And if a fellow — or a girl — is made of the right stuff that person need not fear the future.

So, graduates, congratulations on having reached this important step. And may your futures be prosperous and happy. All you need do is play life's game fairly and squarely, and you'll crown yourself with success.

A MASTER LEAVES

Institutions of learning live for centuries, but man, who makes them possible and who guides their destinies and runs them, is active only for a span of years.

But schools do not grow old. Phillips Academy, in years, is a venerable institution, but it is just as young and just as fresh as it ever was. That is because, periodically, throughout the years, new headmasters have taken the helm. Once more a change in leadership confronts the Academy. July 1 Dr. Claude M. Fuess steps aside, after 40 years of active service, during 15 of which he was headmaster.

Dr. Fuess leaves in his prime after a fruitful regime. But, as it was in the case of his predecessor, his influence will continue to be felt. Dr. Stearns has never ceased his active interest in the school, and Dr. Fuess is not going to lose his either. His wisdom and his experience will still be available. And Andover will gain thereby.

Just as Dr. Stearns has always maintained an active interest, and co-operative spirit, so Dr. Fuess will continue active in the years to come, and Phillips Academy, under Col. John M. Kemper will continue on its prosperous, happy career.

Dr. Fuess will be missed, but his going is only a step like many similar steps that have been taken in the past. He has completed his active work at the Academy, but he still will be a friend within call for advice and suggestion. He still is, and always will be, very much a part of Andover!

MANY MORE RED COATS

From scratch to tops in two years!

That is what the Red Coat Horse Show has done. Last year it was all new, but a success. This year's show was bigger and better in every way, although the weather man did not co-operate as fully as he might have.

From the viewpoint of those who attended the show over the Memorial Day weekend, it was a success, and from the point of view of those who had horses in it, it was successful, too. In fact, the interest is so great that already, so far as entries are concerned, the 1949 show is already an assured success.

The Andover firemen certainly did a good job, and the Plum Island Polio Camp — the only one of its kind in the country — will benefit to a considerable extent.

It was all very much worth while!

Insisting on the right-of-way never determines who is right, but who is left.

U.N. Facts and Faces YEMEN

The Imamate of Yemen is an ancient Kingdom in the southwest part of the peninsula between Asir and the British protectorate of Aden in Arabia. With an approximate area of 75,000 square miles and a population of 3,500,000 inhabitants, Yemen grows coffee and grain in the plateau of El Jebel, the most fertile part of Arabia. Its exports are coffee, grain, hides and charcoal. Its capital is Sana'a, an old walled city with eight gates. Yemen was admitted to the United Nations on 30 September 1947, and it was represented at the Second Session of the U.N. General Assembly by Prince Seif El Islam Abdullah. Its flag has a red background with five white stars and a white scimitar in the center.

Down the Years with The Townsman

50 Years Ago—June, 1898

A handsome new soda fountain just installed at Bliss' drug store is greatly admired.

A large wagon, built on order for the Washington Mills at Lawrence, has been completed by Tuttle & Morrison.

The young ladies of Abbot Academy who have been conducting Sunday school for the past four months in the Scotland district, entertain their pupils at a picnic on the lawn in the rear of the academy building.

Says The Townsman: "A horse which was being led through town by a man in a gig dropped dead in front of the Andover Book store. The horse fell on a bicycle belonging to a Phillips Academy student and damaged it considerably. The horse was old and was evidently overcome by the heat."

Police receive reports of rascally work of vandals. Considerable mischief is done in vegetable gardens. "The police are at a loss to account for the vandalism," we report. "There is evidently no object of revenge in the acts of the marauders, as the villainy is not confined to any particular person. Chief Mears believes the mischief was done by boys."

Miss Winona E. Graffam, who has been teaching in the South, is at her home here for vacation. O. P. Chase, the newsdealer, has improved the facilities of his store by the addition of a handsome news counter.

Rev. Arthur E. Golden and wife leave for Elliott, Me., where they are to spend several days with their parishioners. Mr. Golden makes the trip on his bicycle.

Contract for the construction of the out-fall sewer from the filter beds in Shawheen Village to the Merrimack river awarded by the Board of Public Works. The price is $68,335, which is the low bid.

Mrs. Colver J. Stone of Locke street entertains Mrs. Bernard M. Allen of Cheshire, Conn.

Rev. and Mrs. E. Victor Bigelow visiting in Chocoma, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew W. Laurie of Phillips street sail for England.

Frederic S. Boutwell, treasurer of the Andover Savings Bank, attending a bankers' convention at Buffalo, N. Y.

Electric car struck by lightning on the Reading road, but no damage is done and nobody is injured.

The School committee names these new teachers: Mildred Burdett, Gertrude Berry.

Scholars in the sixth grade of the Central school give their teacher, Miss Blanche Hinds, a surprise party.

Says an editorial: "The Townsman hopes that the appointment of Kerr Sparks as a regular fireman will prove to have been a wise choice. Mr. Sparks has all the qualities necessary to recommend him for the position, except his name."

Work is progressing on the installation of a new boiler at the pumping station.

Mad dog scare in the Dascomb road district.

The Overseers' Association of the Shawheen Mills tenders a farewell testimonial to Benjamin Duce, who retires as resident agent of the plant.

Theodore C. Burr, son of Mrs. Charlotte H. Burr of Salem street, is graduated from Mt. Hermon School.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hitchcock have moved from Abbott street to the George Flathers residence on Bancroft road.

REPORT from the State House

BY SENATOR PHILIP K. ALLEN

Last week we took up the Department of Agriculture. Next in alphabetical order is the Department of Banks and Insurance. Under this department are three divisions: Division of Insurance, Division of Savings Bank, and Life Insurance, and the Division of Banks and Loan Agencies. Since each of these divisions has a great deal of responsibility and importance, we will take them up in separate issues of this column.

The Division of Insurance was created to guarantee to the Massachusetts citizen every right and privilege he is entitled to in any insurance policy. The Commissioner, Charles F. J. Harrington, of Watertown, has under him five Deputy Commissioners, a Legal Counsel, Actuaries, a Chief Examiner, and sundry insurance specialists.

Some conception of the responsibility involved in this Division will be had when one understands that it supervises the business and financial structure of 52 life insurance companies, 113 casualty companies, 268 fire insurance companies, 32 savings bank departments, 658 fraternal benefit organizations, and the retirement systems of 1,220 municipal, county and state employees' groups. There are in Massachusetts for example, at present over 2,000,000 people who have taken out insurance policies of one kind or another. Under the Chief Examiner, the financial books of every insurance company licensed to do business in Massachusetts are audited.

The First Deputy Commissioner has supervision of the examining department as well as the admission and licensing of new companies. Under him also is the Actuarial Department.

The Second and Fourth Deputies supervise a new division called the Rating Section. Recently, the Supreme Court of the United States held insurance to be interstate commerce and, therefore, subject to federal regulations. Public Law 15 provides federal regulation of the insurance industry in those states whose insurance laws are not as strong as federal law, and the states were given until July 1st of this year to pass strengthening laws or to be subject to new federal regulations. The so-called Rating Bureau which supply the insurance trade with rates to be charged the buying public are intricately set up, but by placing them under strict state supervision it is hoped that Massachusetts will comply with Public Law 15.

The Third Deputy supervises the activities of hospital insurance groups such as the Blue Cross, insurance brokers, insurance agents, real estate held by the insurance companies, the legal form of all policies approved by the department which will be used in Massachusetts, and acts as the Office Manager in the entire division.

The Fifth Deputy supervises fraternal and organization insurance paying sick and death benefits to members, and accepts and processes all complaints or appeals made to the division.

One of the most interesting duties of the department is the annual setting of compulsory automobile insurance rates based on past driver experience. The rates of an individual town are determined by the past actions of drivers of automobiles garaged in that particular town and are not based upon the number of accidents that took place within the limits of the town. Furthermore, these rates are based not upon

What Our Readers Say—

SUGGESTS NEW MOTTO

Editor of The Townsman:

This Fourth anniversary of the return of the Western Powers to Northern Europe suggests another motto for the United Nations. The following proposition is its base. Upon securing to me their Liberty, thereafter, the problem is not what is the best method of living, but how can men live peacefully together with each believing his method best. The corollary of that is Compromise. Therefore, Peace and Liberty being the objective of the United Nations, its means for that achievement must be based upon this:

Compromise heals men's wounds;

Compromise prevents them.

In that Men of Liberty can find usefulness, reliance, and guidance for the high purpose of the United Nations wrought by so much cost throughout Time.

Perhaps an efficient place to display this motto is over the entrance to every post office and public school in the world. There, people would continually know of it, as would their government and others in power. Moreover, it is to this high and practical ideal and touchstone of our Constitution, each being secure in his belief that his method of living is best, that every school for children should inculcate. Otherwise, they fall short of their obligation to Liberty. They merely take advantage of it to further the totalitarian concept that but one method of living is best for all. In human relations, that attitude appears to be the seed of warfare. No war has ever been waged without it. Therefore, let us turn to the power of Compromise, it is above our economics, religion, and politics. That is the price of Peace in a world of Liberty.

Sincerely yours,

Karl Haartz

Do You Know Massachusetts?

DO YOU KNOW THAT . . . While the cost of living index for Massachusetts in May stood at 160.7, or 60.7% above the pre-war average in 1935-1939, some twenty points of this rise is due to the 9% increase in food costs. . . . If food prices decline later this year, as many now predict, and the other items hold steady, each 5% decrease in food will reduce the combined index by about 3.7 points, as calculated by the Division of Necessaries of Life

Associated Industries reports that more than 200 new manufacturing concerns started business in Massachusetts last year. . . . Massachusetts stands second among all the states in the manufacture of brushes. . . . Of the $91,496,496 total revenues for public schools in Massachusetts during the 1947 fiscal year, 92.3% was paid by the municipal governments and 7.7% by the state. . . . U. S. Public Health Service estimates that $70,000,000 will be sufficient to free the streams and coastal waters of Massachusetts of damaging pollution that is contributed within the state, of which sum $42,000,000 would be for sewers, $25,000,000 for treatment works and $3,000,000 for miscellaneous works. . . . The first flag ever made of American bunting was produced at the mills in Saxtonville. . . . The Town of Tewksbury at its recent annual meeting authorized the selectmen to constitute themselves as the town's planning board, pending election of planning board members next year. (Compiled by the State Planning Board) the number of lives lost in an individual accident, but rather the loss in dollars and cents claimed and paid by the insurance companies.

Next week we will take up the Division of Banks and Loan Agencies.

Belanger was walked by Wetterberg, Forsley struck out, but Neldzewski came through with a single to score Belanger and make the count two all. Torpey and Gracie both reached base on balls. Belanger fled out to Beauchesne, but Parker smashed a clean hit which scored Neldzewski with the final run.

DO YOU HAVE A VEGETABLE GARDEN?

Having any luck?—"Too much rain," you reply—Well, that's the same trouble confronting the commercial growers of this country who supply the canneries, who in turn supply our distributors, who in turn supply us, etc.—The answer?

If you could buy an automobile today for 15% or 25% off the regular asking price, even though you wouldn't use the automobile within the next six months, you'd be very unwise if you didn't buy it.

We can't sell you that automobile, but we can save you an approximate 10% or 15% on a good six months supply of canned goods, understanding that the weather conditions being what they are throughout the nation, anything can happen—when merchandise is short the prices go up! It has happened before.

The Back Yard

Gardener Says:

When it comes to being busy, the proverbial one-armed paper hanger with the hives has nothing on the back yard gardener at this time of year.

Memorial weekend Mom and I spent considerable time pruning the honeysuckles, the big quince bush, the lilacs, and the forsythia. In another week or two it will be the bridal wreath and the mock orange which will receive attention.

It sure was tough going in that quince bush. The thorns were tougher than my old hide and, according to the neighbors, I used language which should have been censored. You see I had neglected to do a pruning job each year on that quince bush. One-third or one-fourth pruned out each year is a good rule. If you do that and cut right down to the base, you have little trouble. I didn't and I did.

The idea is to prune when the flowers have gone by on such shrubs as I mentioned. Cutting out the old shoots at the base induces new shoots. Flowers are formed on last year's wood, and the older the shoot gets the less chance there is that it produces new wood.

Of course, all of this depends to some extent on the way you want to manage the particular shrub. If you want to keep it down to a height of three or four feet, you have to do considerably more pruning than if you want to let it grow higher. But for goodness sake, don't cut such shrubs at the end of the branches. Get down and cut them back to the base. That's why it's well to do some cutting each year. Otherwise the shoots get growing so close together you can't get in with a saw, nor can you get in with a pair of clippers. Cutting at the end makes the bush look like a G. I. hair cut, which isn't what nature intended.

There are, of course, exceptions to these general rules. For instance, the butterfly bush and the hydrangeas are pruned right to the ground each spring. The reason for this is that these two shrubs produce flowers on this year's growth. So as is often the case you have to remember the particular habits of the bush you're pruning. Take barberry

Plan Field Day For Charity Fund

A field day at which Irish sporting events will be featured, will be held at the Brookline town field Sunday, June 20, for the Archbishop Cushing charity fund.

A large gathering is expected as the Cork hurling team and the Kerry football team are scheduled to meet the best All-Star team that Boston can put forward to defend the claim that they have the better players. There will be other athletic events to fill the afternoon, together with music by two bands. A large committee under the Rev. Gerald L. Bucke is working for the success of this affair.

For instance, if you want to make it into a close clipped hedge, prune it often. Otherwise prune as you would the quince.

In pruning hedges, remember this. Keep the top a little narrower than the bottom of the hedge. It allows for sunlight to reach the lower branches and there is less chance of their dying out and making the hedge top heavy with green growth.

Still another point to be gained, I am told, is that during a winter of heavy snow, such as we had last year, a hedge narrower at the top will hold the weight to better advantage.

Last week you remember I mentioned keeping those plants well supplied with fertilizer to make up for the plant food leached out by the rainfall. I checked up with the weather station at the University and found that we had better than six inches of rainfall which is almost twice normal. We had only two perfect days during the month of May. On 21 days it rained with the other eight days cloudy. That, of course, is one reason why the work has piled up. Gardens that should have been planted long ago are still to be planted.

NEW BULLETINS AVAILABLE FOR SUMMER MEAL PLANNING

A penny spent now for a postal card can mean dollars saved later this summer on food, declares Extension Nutritionist May E. Foley at the State University in Amherst.

"We have the largest supply of free food bulletins and leaflets in recent years," Miss Foley declares, adding that all leaflets are simple and well illustrated.

Topics include "Green Vegetables in Everyday Meals," "Food for Two," "Get More from Your Freedom Garden," and "Root Vegetables in Everyday Meals." These are all issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Miss Foley advises housewives to send also for a leaflet entitled "Salads from Your Home Garden." This is designed especially for use with local garden vegetables.

All the above leaflets, she adds, are free to Massachusetts residents by addressing a card to the Mailing Room, University of Massachusetts, Amherst—stating the leaflets desired.

The Board of Selectmen at Monday night's meeting voted to expend $600 to bring the assessors' maps up to date, to include new sub-divisions and all new house construction since the last time it was done, about 1942.

A communication from Mrs. Frank L. Purdon of the Andover Improvement Society regarding improvements on the westerly side of School street, from Central street to Lupin road, was received and referred to the Board of Public Works. Mrs. Purdon is chairman of the School Street Improvement committee.

Bids on the parking meters to be installed in the business area of the town were discussed at Monday night's meeting of the board but no action was taken. Installation of the meters is expected to improve traffic conditions along Main street and in the vicinity of Elm square.

The selectmen have asked the members of the newly-appointed Housing Authority to meet with them Monday night to discuss some of the features of the veterans' housing law. It is expected that the new board will organize at that time.

Phillips Academy Graduates 248

Dr. Fuess, on his last appearance before the alumni as Andover's head, paid a warm tribute to the men who preceded him at Andover, to all of his associates and to the youngsters graduating this year. Dr. Fuess will retire on July 1, after forty years of service to Phillips Academy, fifteen of which he spent as headmaster.

At the Prize Day exercises the following Andover students received awards:

Edwin Snell Weaver, 32 Phillips street, department prize for aural ability. Awarded to those students in their first year of French who get the highest marks on a special examination to test aural comprehension. The George Webster Otis scholarship.

Elmer R. Harris, 66 Main street, the John Cornell scholarship.

Robert James McCoubrie, Jr., 5 Highland Wayside, the Frank van der Stucken prize for proficiency in organ playing.

Charles Flather, 45 Abbott street, the John P. Hopkins prize for attendance.

Donald Kenzie Cameron, Jr., 1 Kensington street, the Joseph Cook prize for excellence in Greek, and the John P. Hopkins prize for attendance.

Douglas Lee Adkins, Porter road, the Society of Inquiry scholarship and a prize for recitation from memory of poetry or prose open to students in Latin 1.

In the annual ball game, Exeter pulled out a thrilling 10-inning victory, 3-2, over its Andover rival. The game had been rained out Saturday and was played Sunday, for $3,500,000, and Oswald Tower, dean of the Phillips Academy faculty, who introduced retiring Headmaster Fuess.

Television Reception Is Good Here

To make everything just as clear as possible, a 50-foot aerial had been erected on the roof, and this was augmented by a pre-amplifier which brings in all patterns clear and distinct. Those who visited the Temple shop during the evening were most enthusiastic over television after seeing this newest form of entertainment.

At the Andover Home Service, 1 Essex street, Theodore F. Tarbox and Mrs. William H. Rackle had cleared the center of their store and placed about 35 chairs where the personnel of the Andover National bank and other guests enjoyed the broadcast. The reception was excellent. A special antenna has been erected on the roof to receive the signals, and they came in so well that the same picture could be seen clearly on two sets at one time.

Tonight the Andover Home Service will have as its guests members of the Andover Savings bank staff, and Friday night town officials will make up the audience.

Those who saw Wednesday night's pictures of the dedicatory program were very much pleased with the reception here.

Sales of television sets are expected to increase now that the first New England broadcast has begun. While the numbers who have sets in this locality is few, it is estimated that by Christmas the number will take a big jump and that in another year many homes will be witnessing television broadcasts from several New England stations.

Attend Library Association Meeting

Otto Coelln of Screen Magazine and See and Hear will make a general talk on equipment standards, which will be followed by demonstrations of various types of audio-visual equipment. The first of the general sessions of the conference will be held Monday morning, June 14th, with Pearl S. Buck speaking on "How Libraries Can Influence Public Opinion." The General Conference will run through June 19th. Its tone can be judged from the theme selected — "The Challenge of Public Affairs."

Free Wives

"I hear you advertised for a wife. Any replies."
"Sure. Hundreds."
"Good. What did they say?"
"They all said: You can have mine."

OIL BARREL SUPPORT

A good precaution is to have the oil barrel for your kitchen stove on a masonry or metal support; and that is also according to the legal requirements. If the support is wooden and a fire happens to come, the heavy barrel of oil speedily crashes to the ground. This ruptures all the connections, scatters the oil, and gives the firemen a roaring conflagration to combat. The cellar or the back porch is not the place for an oil barrel anyway, if you can possibly avoid it.

SODALITY NOTES

The Blessed Virgin Mary sodality of St. Augustine's church will hold its last meeting for the season June 14th at 7:30 p. m. in the lower church. All members are urged to attend this meeting, as plans will be made for a party. If a member cannot attend the meeting but would like to go to the party, please get in touch with Miss Dorothy Finno or Miss Mary Coupe.

VIEWS OF THE NEWS

By LEONARD F. JAMES

The word "isolationist" is no longer fashionable, even though the idea remains. By those who delude themselves that complete isolation is desirable and possible—or perhaps by those who are concerned with party control of broader issues—the preferred is "nationalist." Two weeks ago "nationalist" element in Congress attempted to overthrow the partisan foreign policy leader of Vandenberg by reducing amount to be spent under the Loan Recovery Program. When this country reverts to isolationist tendencies and remains as the only in international affairs will most certainly be decided at Philadelphia next week. If the Mr. Taber forces have their way will write a "nationalist" ticket control of the Republican party, defeat the new post-war Republican leaders and their foreign policy.
